Introduction

Welcome, my name is Hope and I'm about to tell you about the magic of Easter and creating Easter themed fairy gardens. My friends and I are gifted each year at Easter and sometimes the children who receive us have never heard of fairy gardens before. They believe in the magic and beauty of fairies, but they don't know about all the majestic possibilities. In this book that my friend Teelie Turner wrote about me, you'll learn how I was able to help a little girl named Kiara to create an amazing Easter fairy garden one Easter morning.

Meet Hope

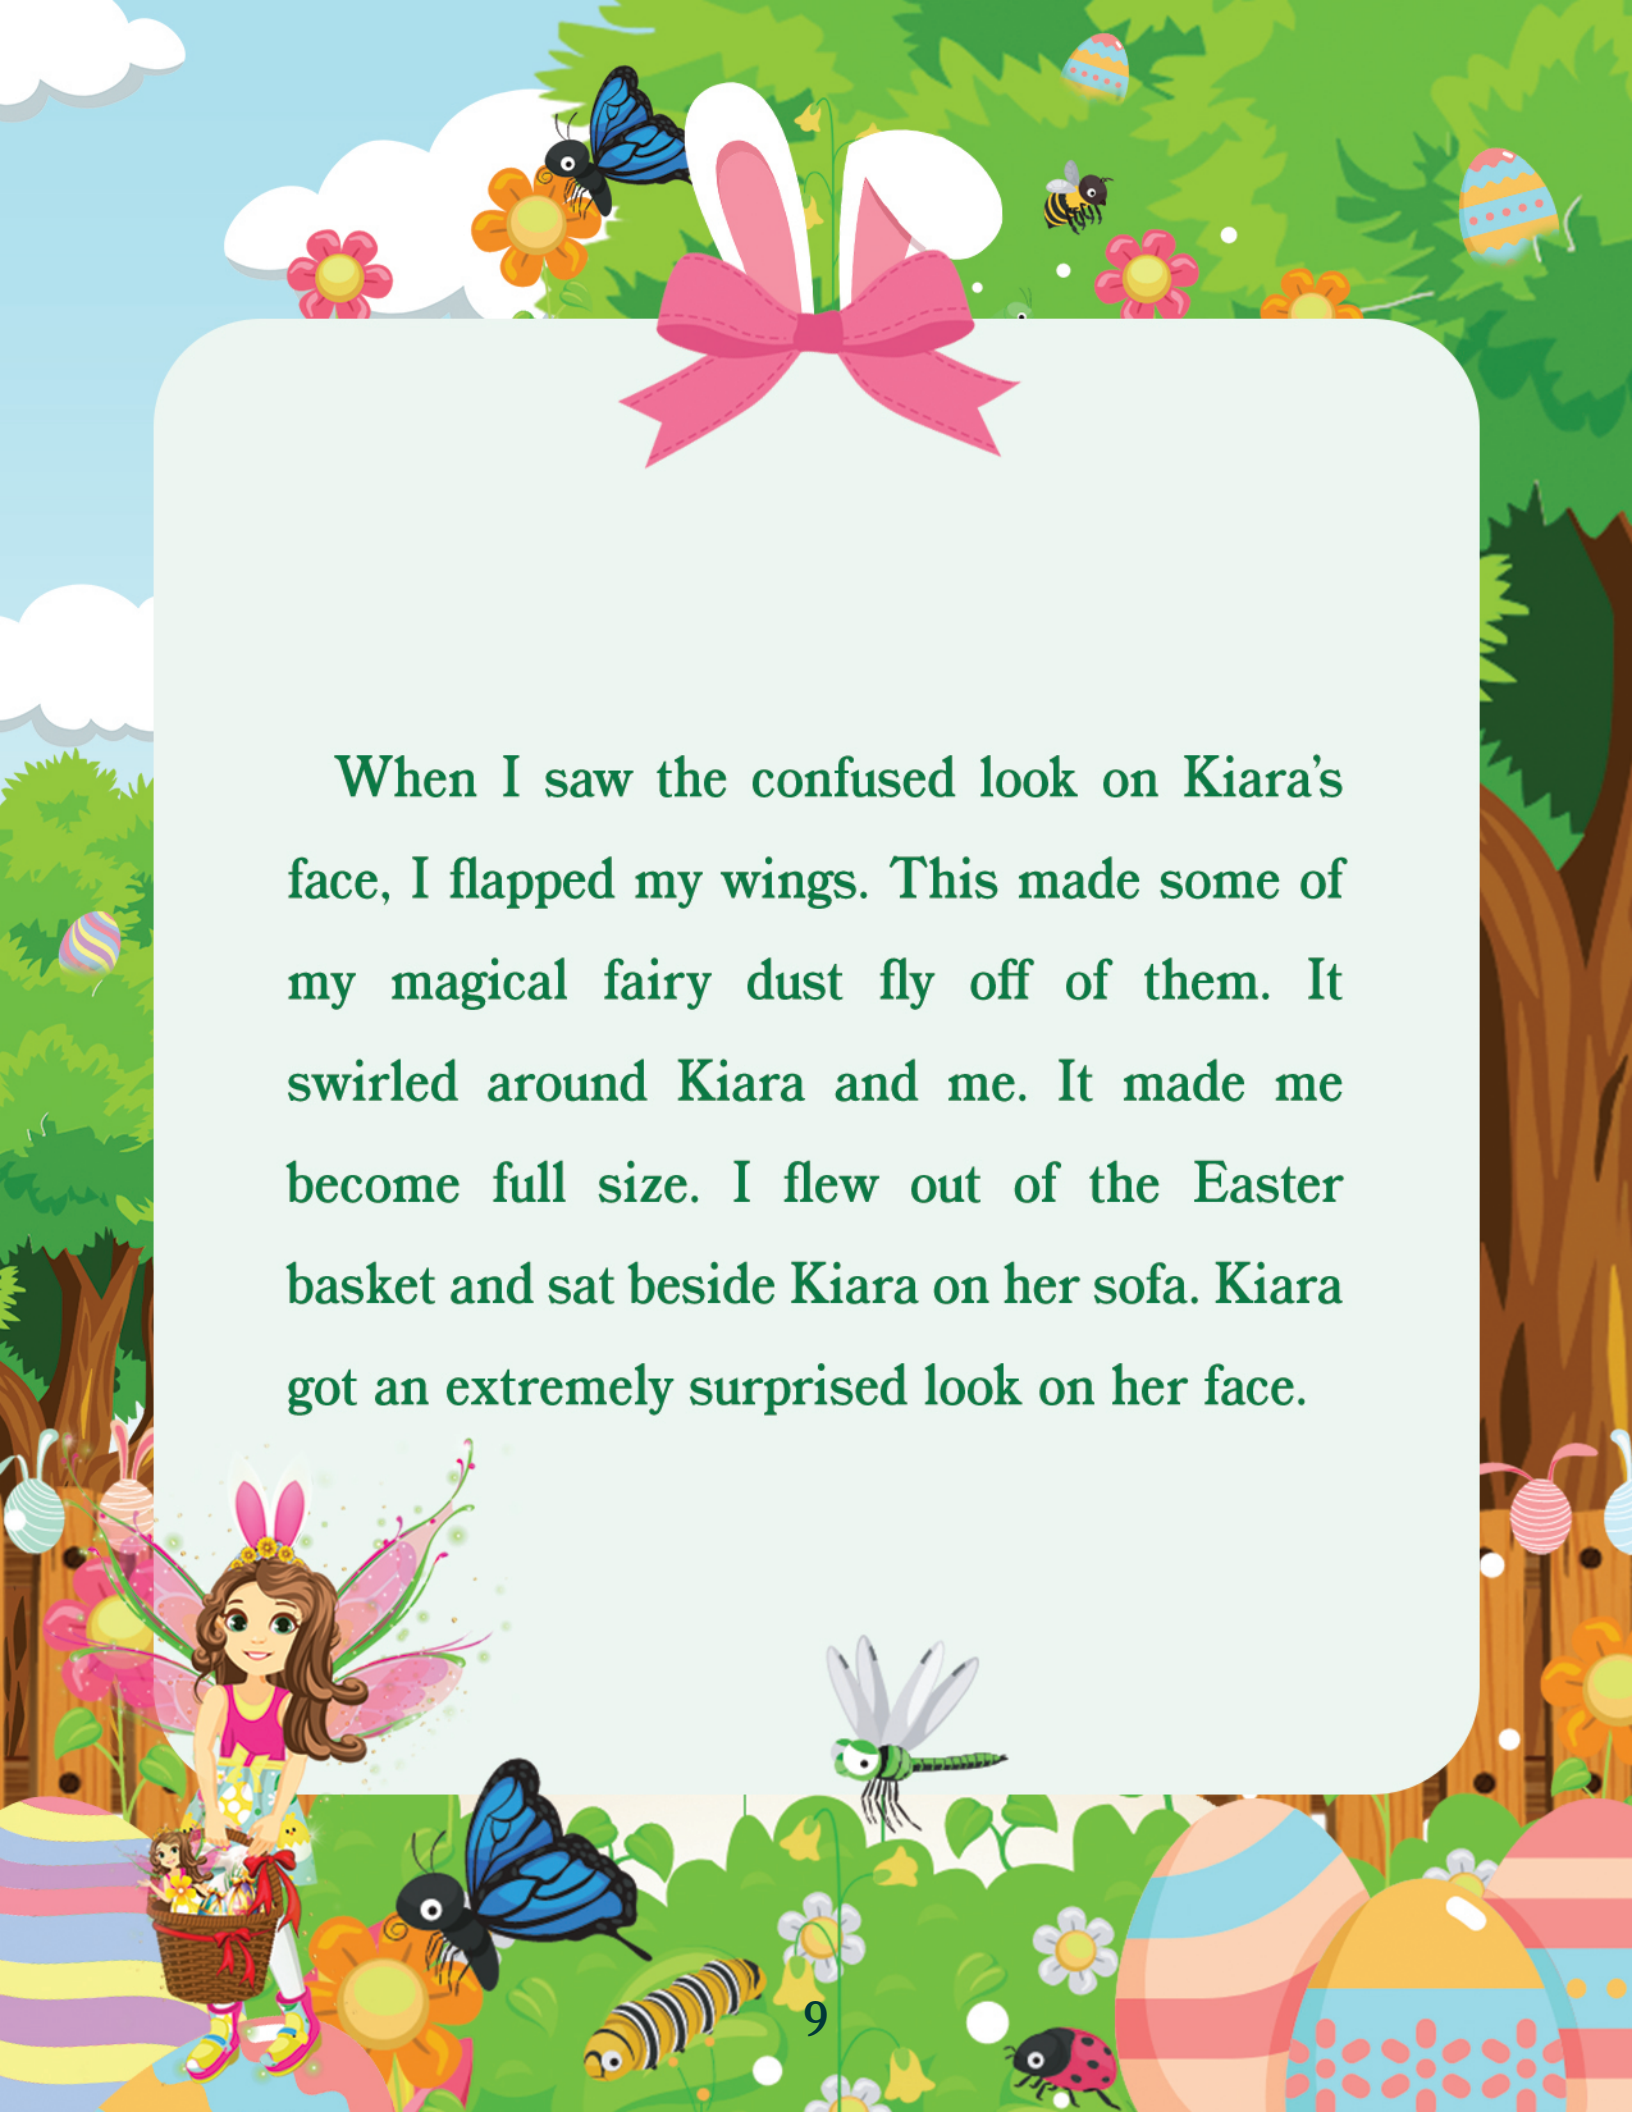

It was Easter morning and all around the world, children were searching for Easter eggs to put in their Easter baskets. Some children's Easter baskets also came with an assortment of other items like books to read or to color.

One little girl named Kiara received an Easter basket filled with tiny miniature items. There was also some dirt and rocks, but she couldn't figure out what she was supposed to do with them. But that was alright because I was included in her basket. I was one of the miniatures that was meant to create a magical fairy garden scene. My name is Hope and I'm an Easter Basket Fairy.

When I saw the confused look on Kiara's face, I flapped my wings. This made some of my magical fairy dust fly off of them. It swirled around Kiara and me. It made me become full size. I flew out of the Easter basket and sat beside Kiara on her sofa. Kiara got an extremely surprised look on her face.

“Hello,” I said, “I’ve come to help you create your magical fairy garden. When it’s done, I’ll take my place in the garden and go back to being tiny again.”

“You’re real,” said Kiara.

“I am,” I said. “All you had to do was believe in me and I was able to come to you.”

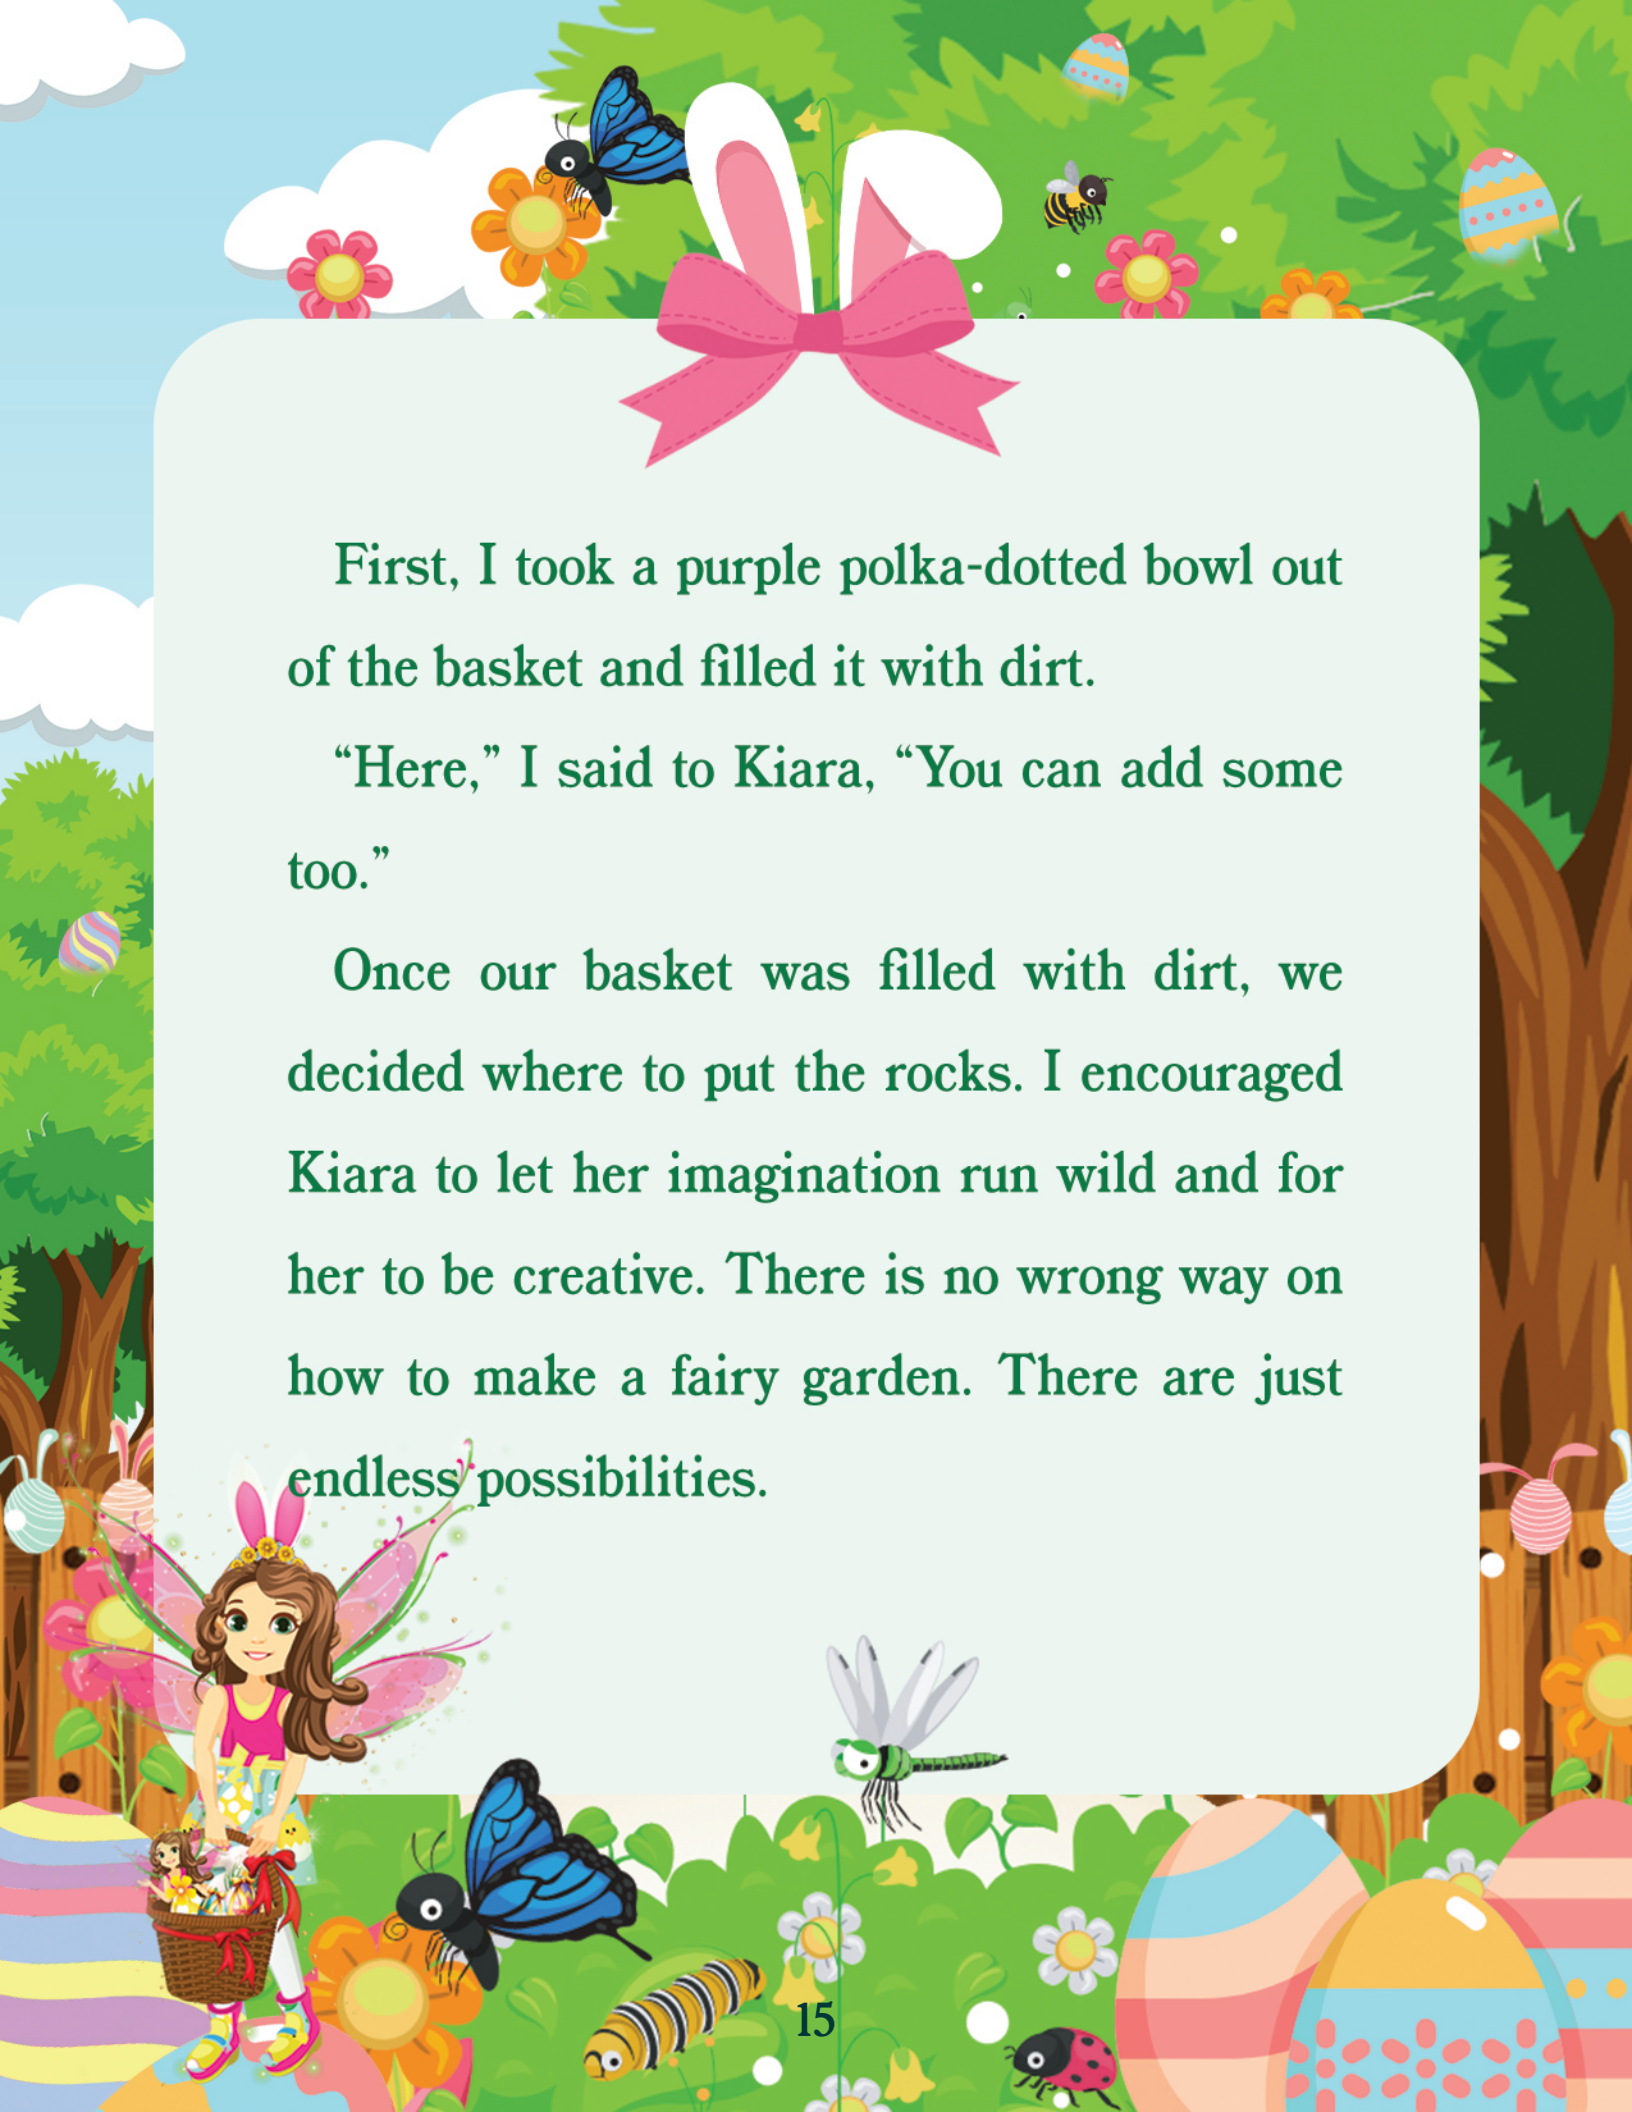

“So, all of these little items are going to make a beautiful garden?” asked Kiara.

“Yes,” I answered as I began to take pieces out of the basket and arrange them on the table to be able to show Kiara how to start working on our magical fairy garden.

First, I took a purple polka-dotted bowl out of the basket and filled it with dirt.

“Here,” I said to Kiara, “You can add some too.”

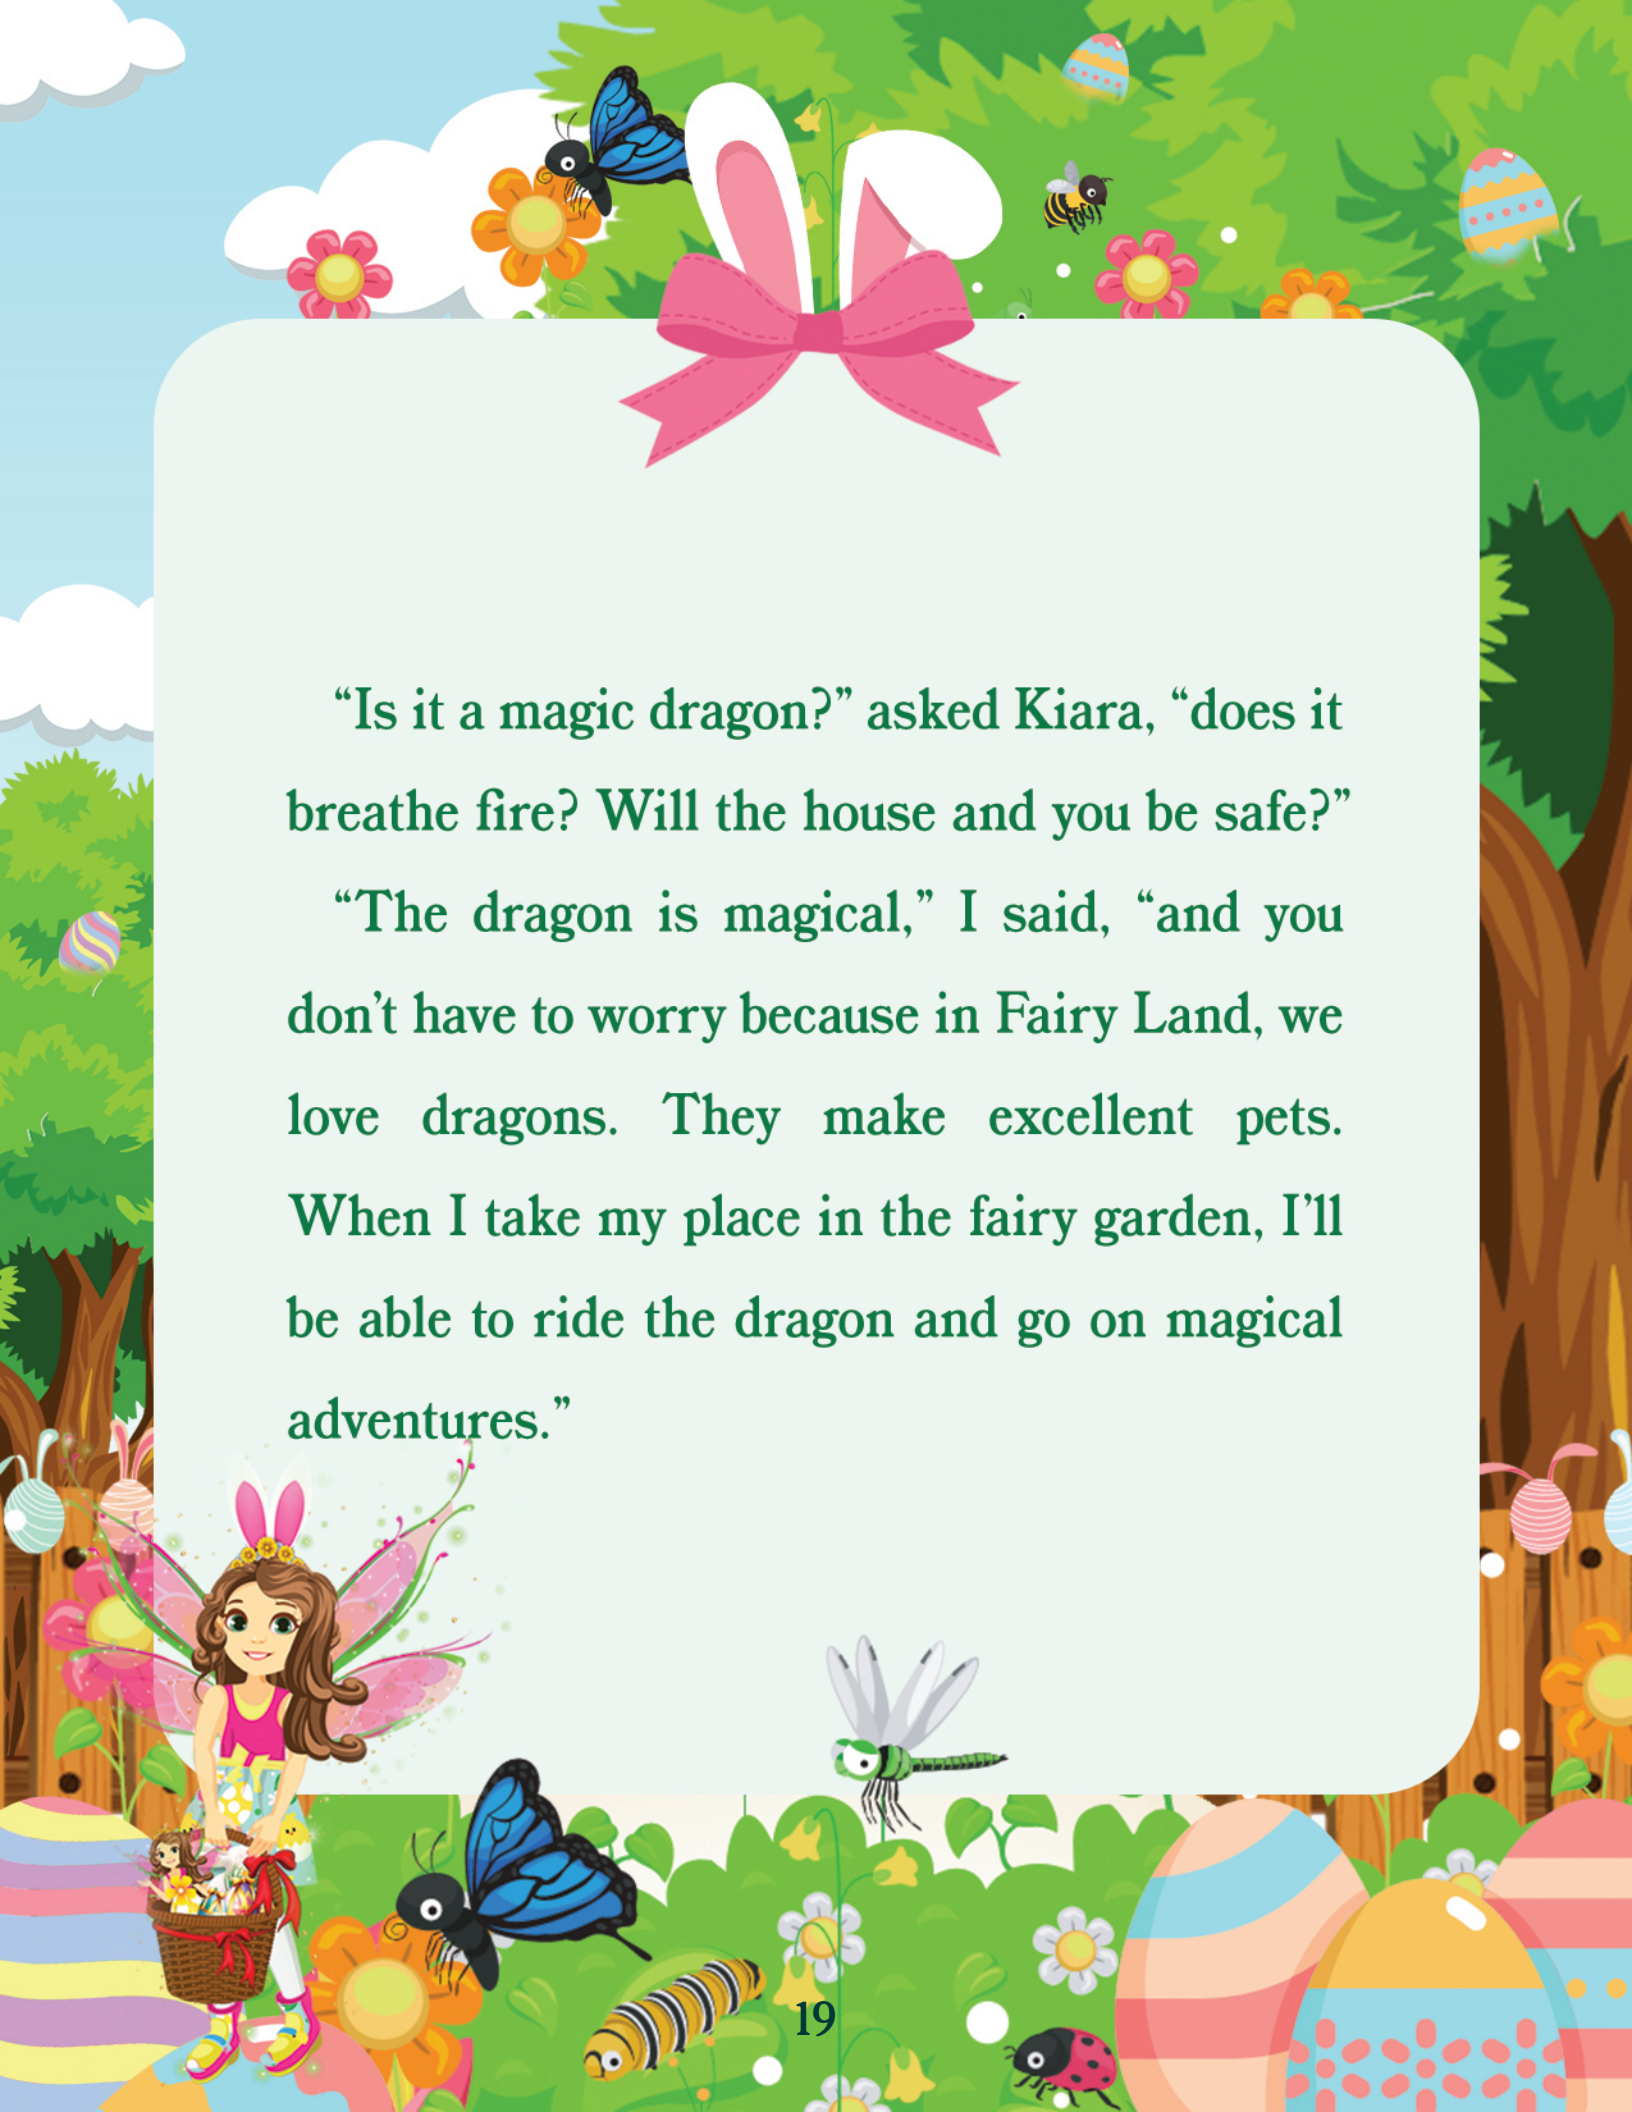

Once our basket was filled with dirt, we decided where to put the rocks. I encouraged Kiara to let her imagination run wild and for her to be creative. There is no wrong way on how to make a fairy garden. There are just endless possibilities.

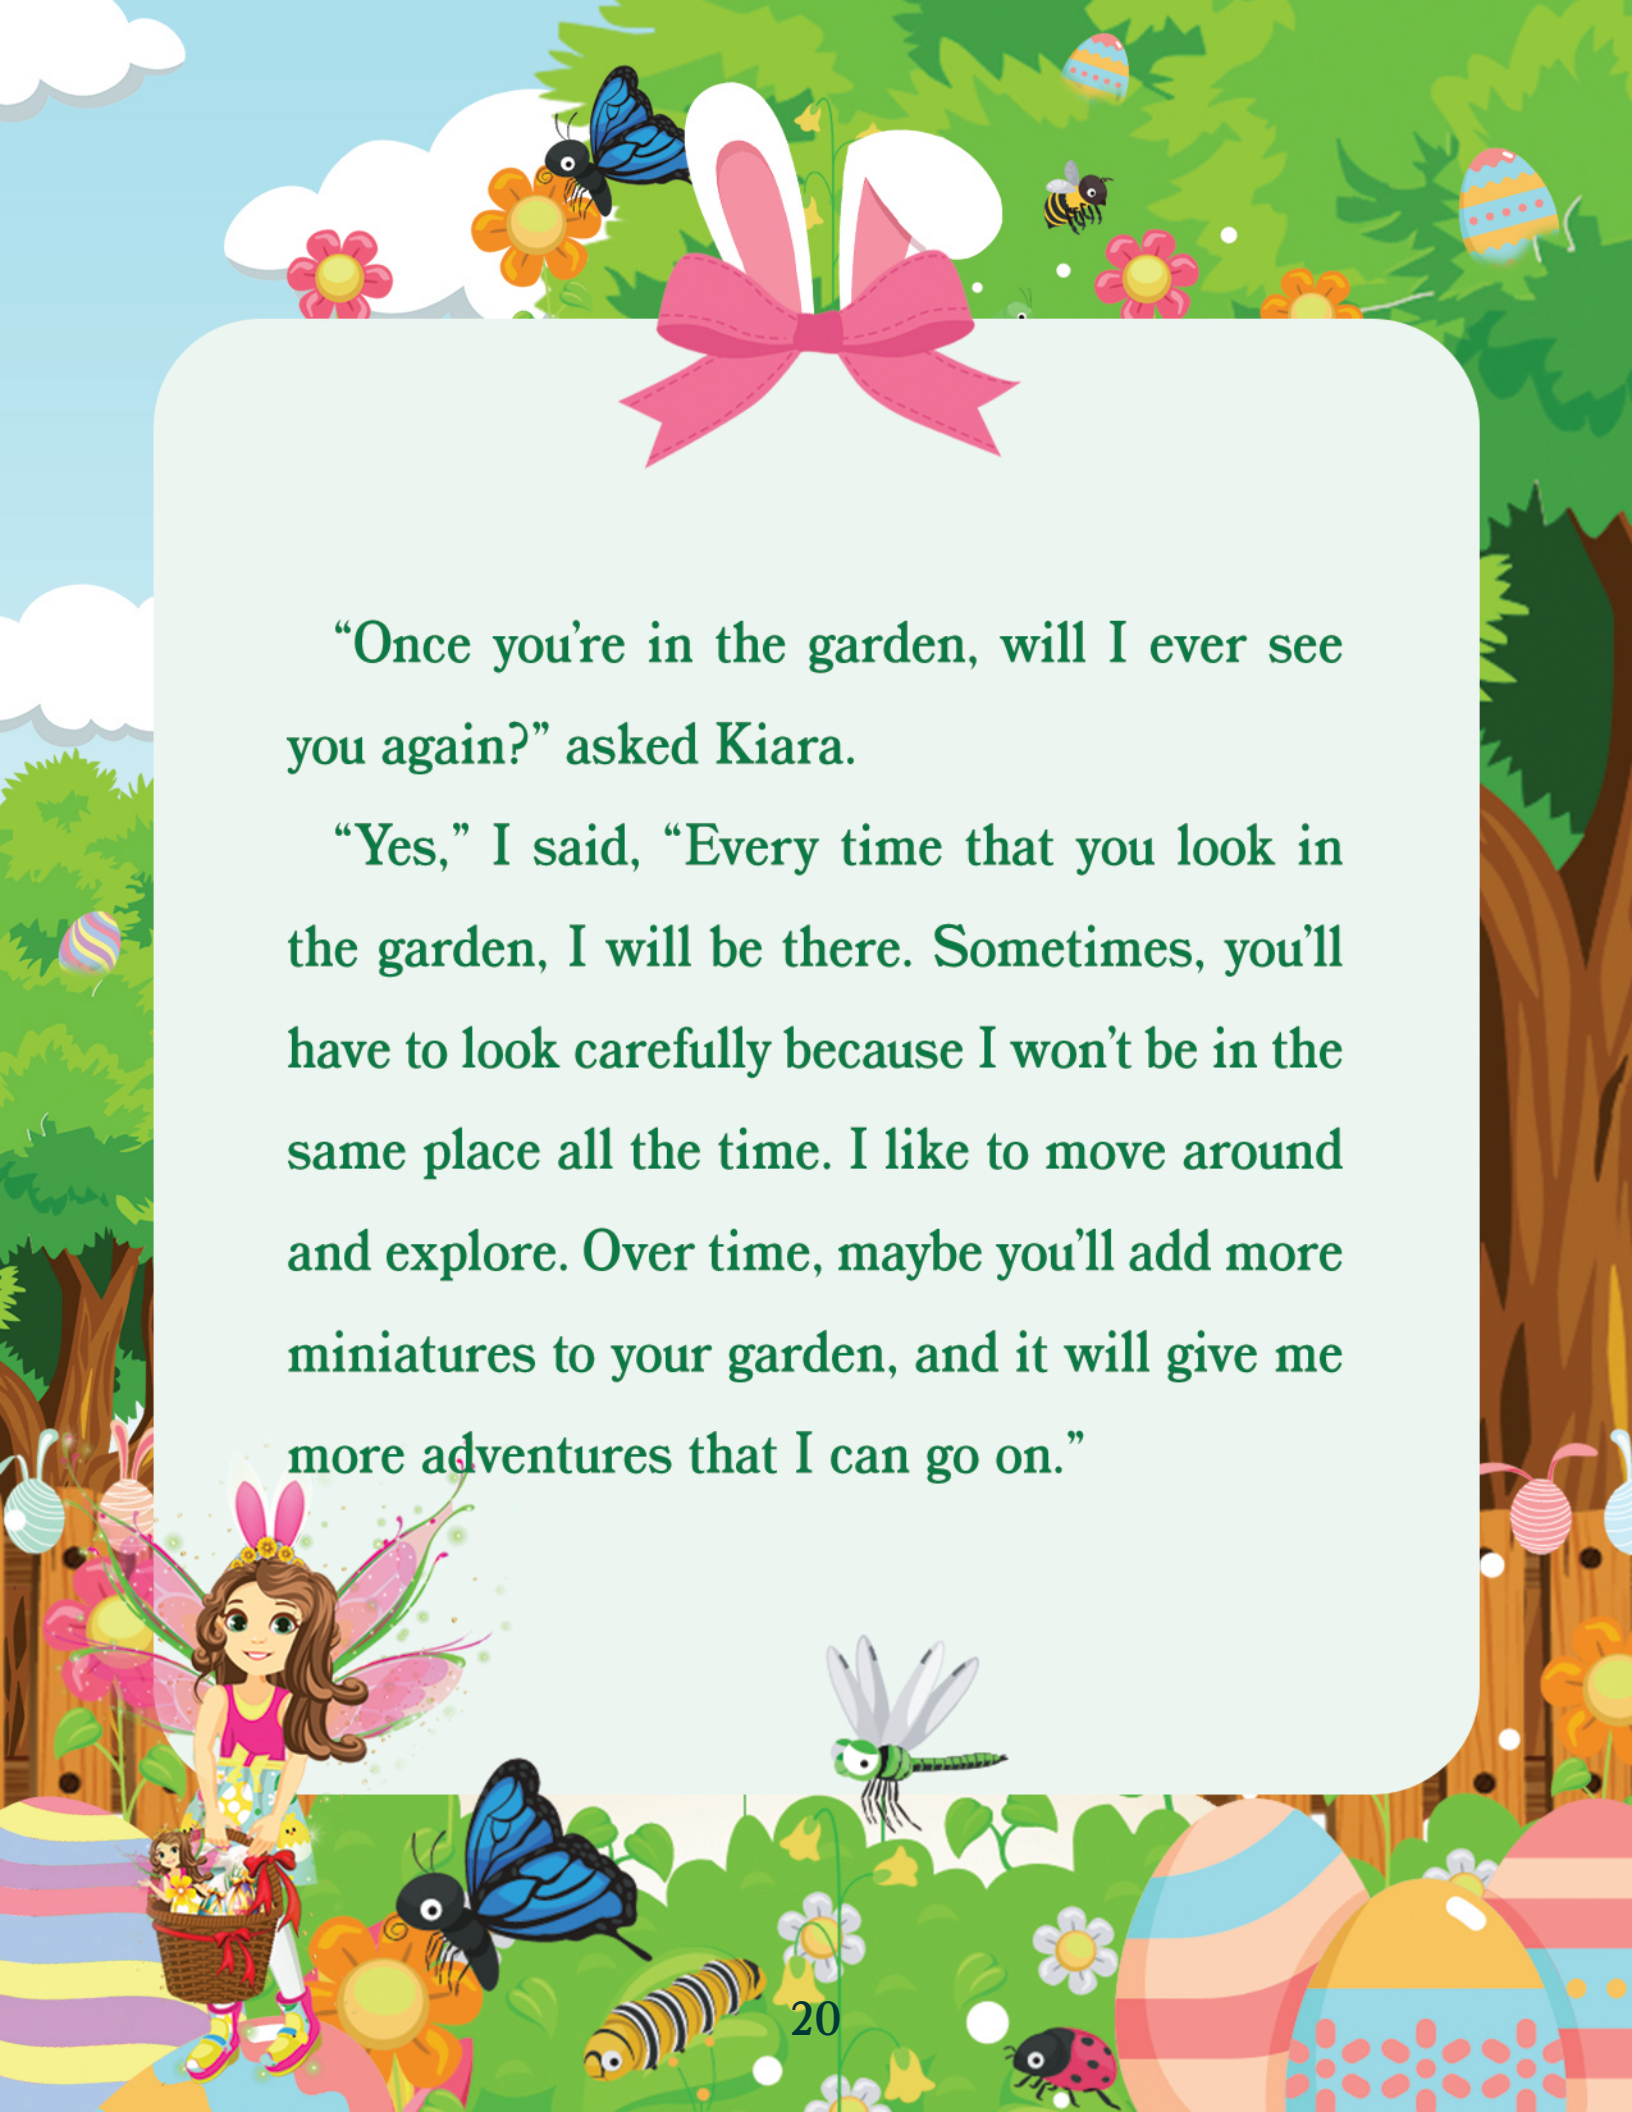

There was a tiny fairy house in the basket and Kiara placed it in the middle of the garden. The pathway of rocks led up to it like steppingstones. There was a miniature dragon and he stood outside the house protecting it.

A vibrant spring garden scene. At the top, a pink bunny ear headband with a large pink bow is centered. The background is a lush green garden with various flowers, including pink and orange ones. A blue butterfly is perched on an orange flower, and a bumblebee is flying nearby. Several colorful Easter eggs are scattered throughout the scene. The sky is light blue with white clouds. The overall atmosphere is cheerful and festive.

“Is it a magic dragon?” asked Kiara, “does it breathe fire? Will the house and you be safe?”

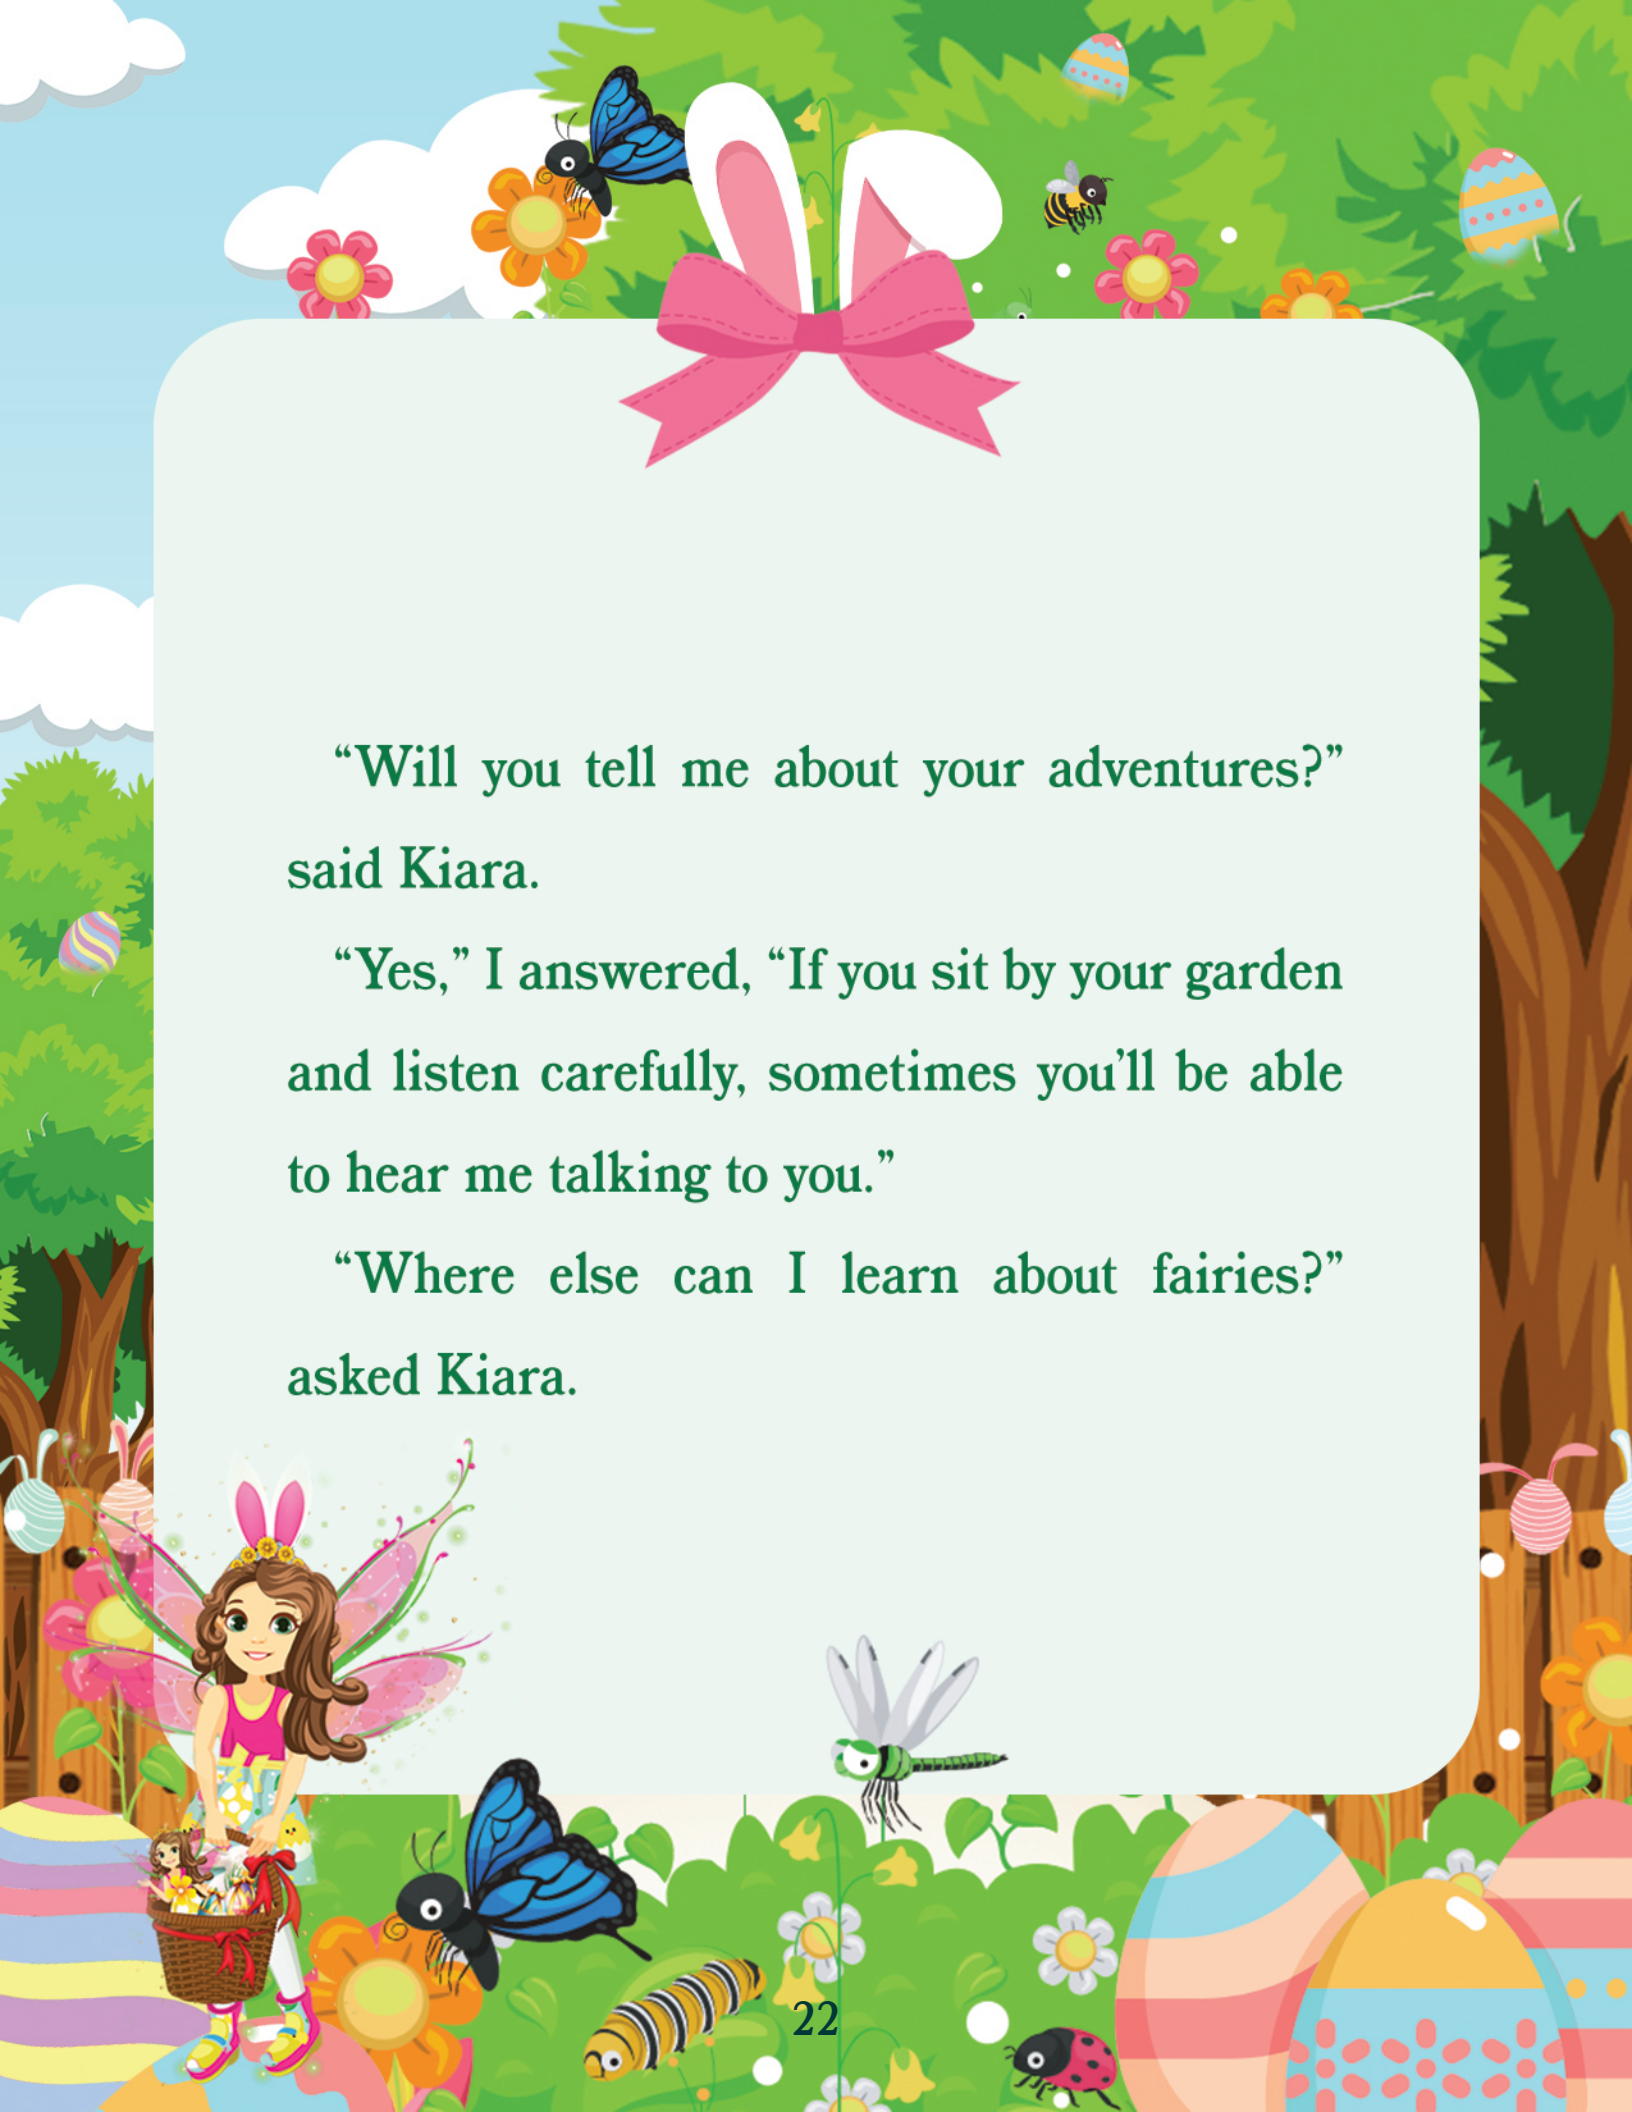

“The dragon is magical,” I said, “and you don’t have to worry because in Fairy Land, we love dragons. They make excellent pets. When I take my place in the fairy garden, I’ll be able to ride the dragon and go on magical adventures.”

“Once you’re in the garden, will I ever see you again?” asked Kiara.

“Yes,” I said, “Every time that you look in the garden, I will be there. Sometimes, you’ll have to look carefully because I won’t be in the same place all the time. I like to move around and explore. Over time, maybe you’ll add more miniatures to your garden, and it will give me more adventures that I can go on.”

“Will you tell me about your adventures?”
said Kiara.

“Yes,” I answered, “If you sit by your garden and listen carefully, sometimes you’ll be able to hear me talking to you.”

“Where else can I learn about fairies?”
asked Kiara.

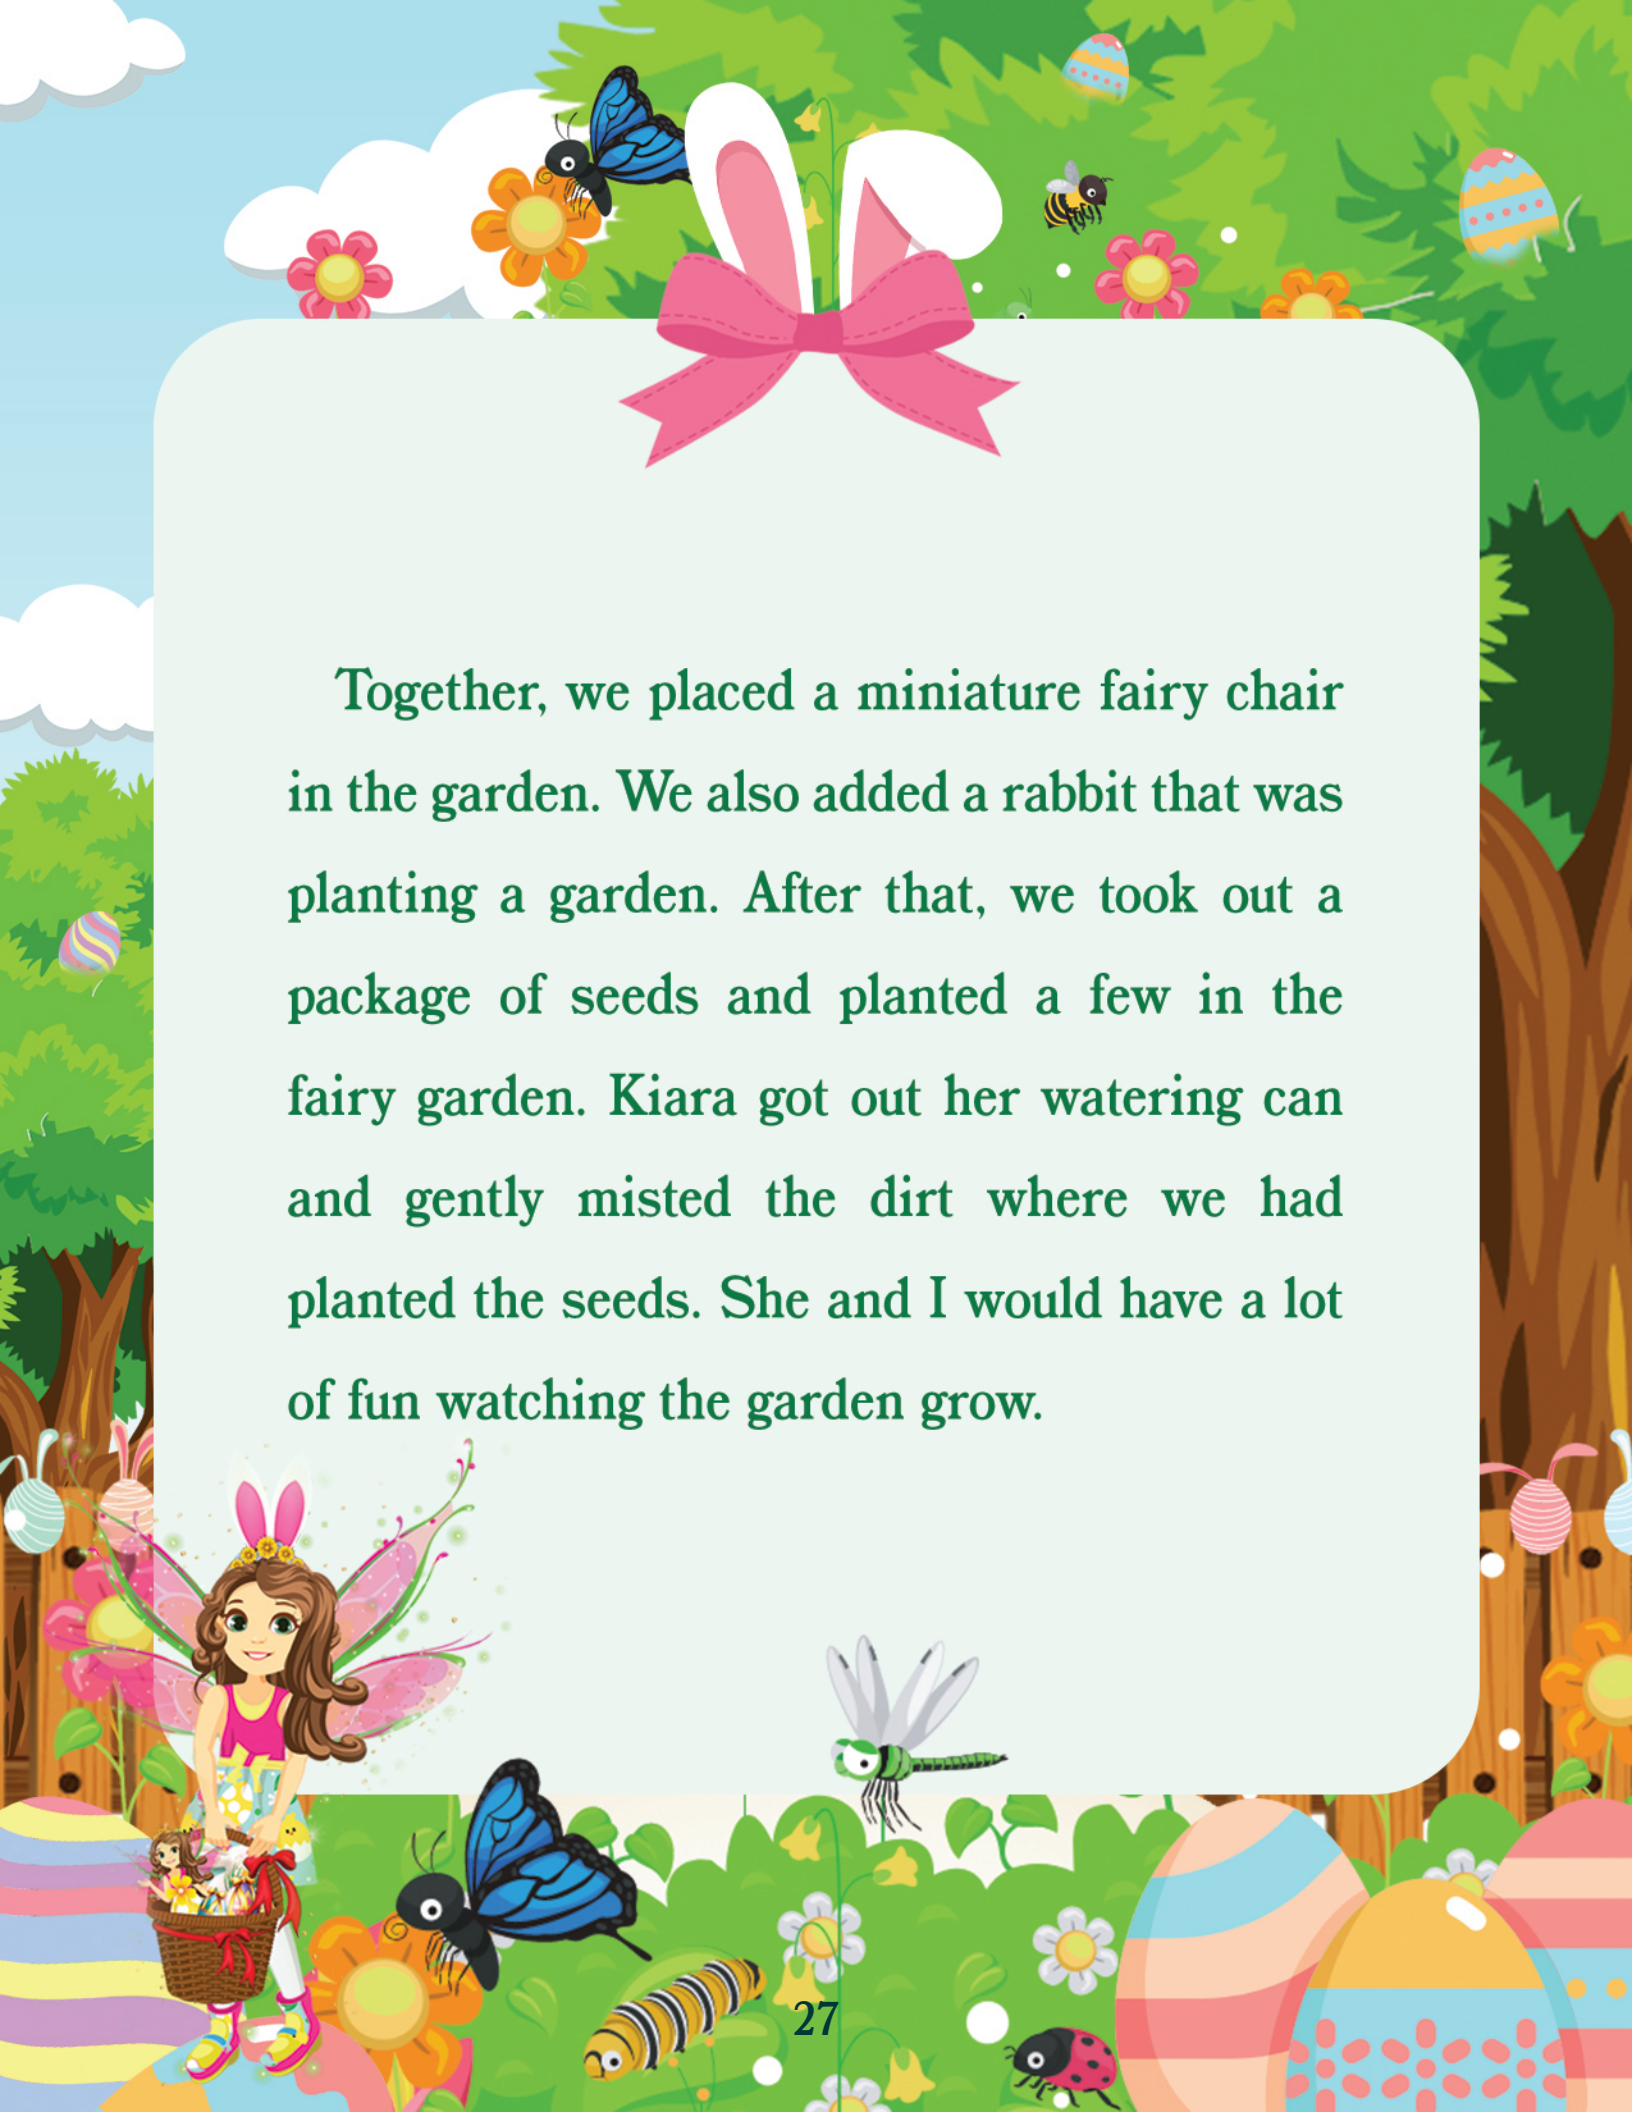

I told Kiara all about my friends at Teelie's Fairy Garden and in Tommy Tinker's Store. They always go on lots of magical adventures and have lots of books written about them. She was very excited to learn more. So, I sat down and told her a story that I remembered about Tommy Tinker and the Lost Candy Factory. She absolutely loved it.

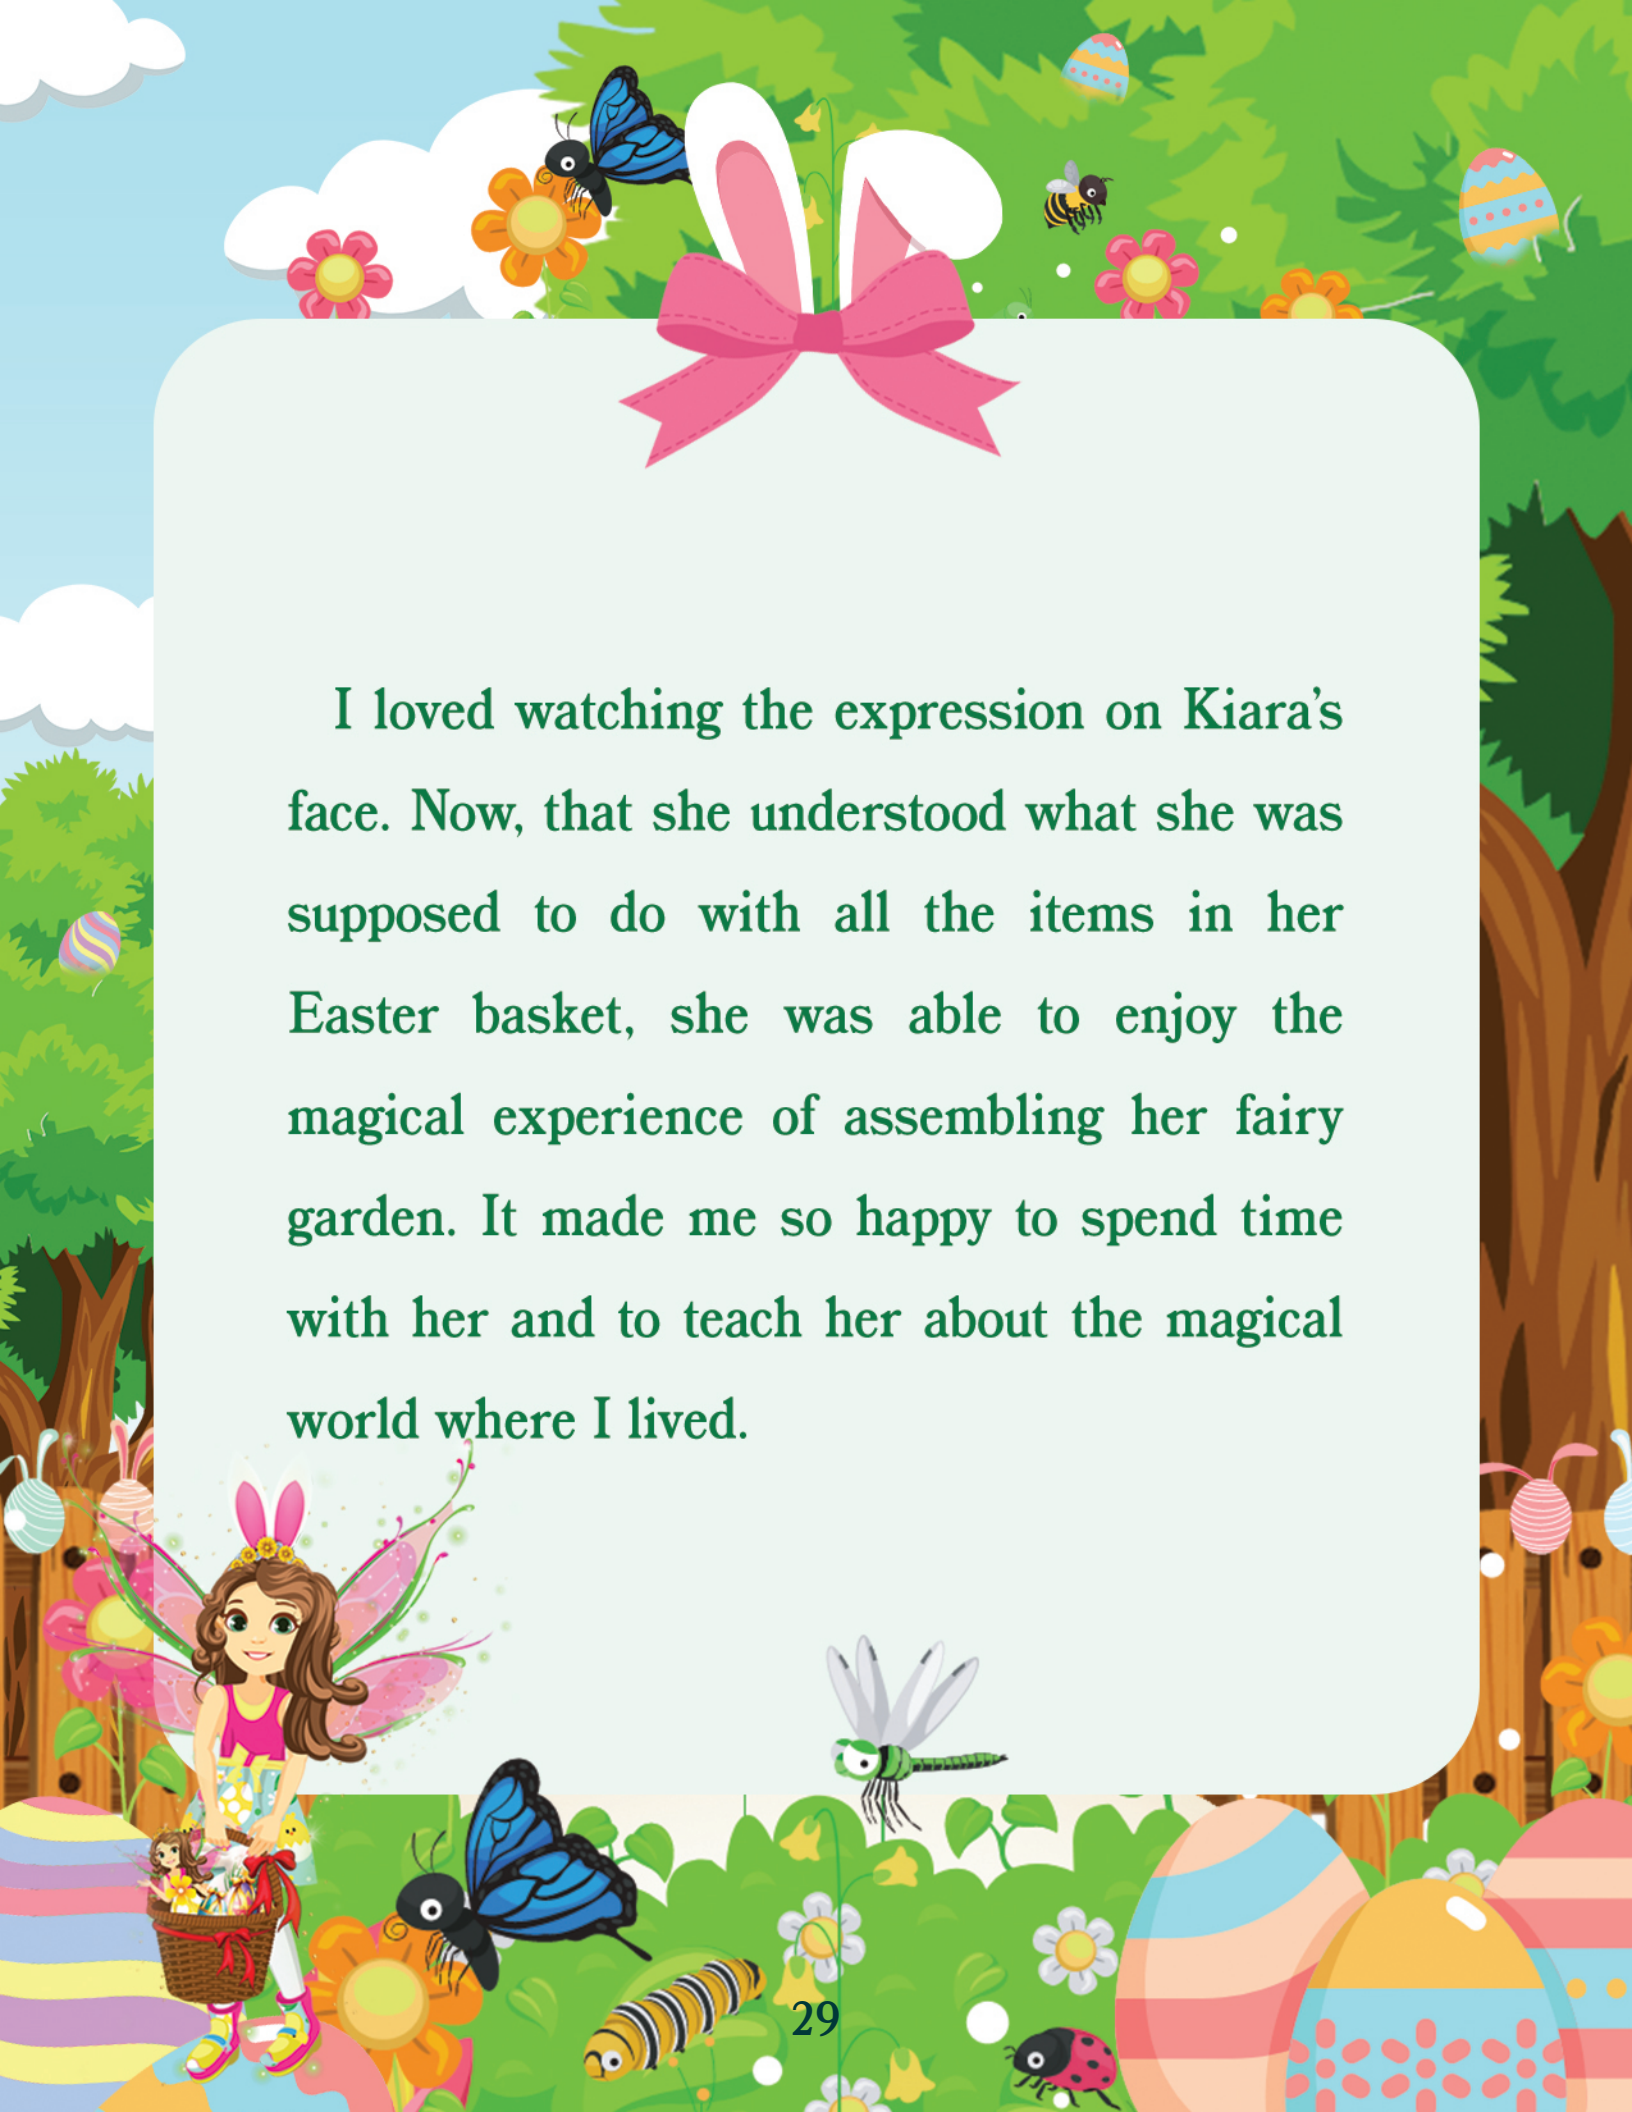

Then, it was time to finish building our fairy garden. The sun was shining in through the windows and I decided that being outside would be great. There was a huge table on Kiara's patio, and I carried the purple polka dotted container out to it. Kiara followed behind me with the remaining items for her fairy garden.

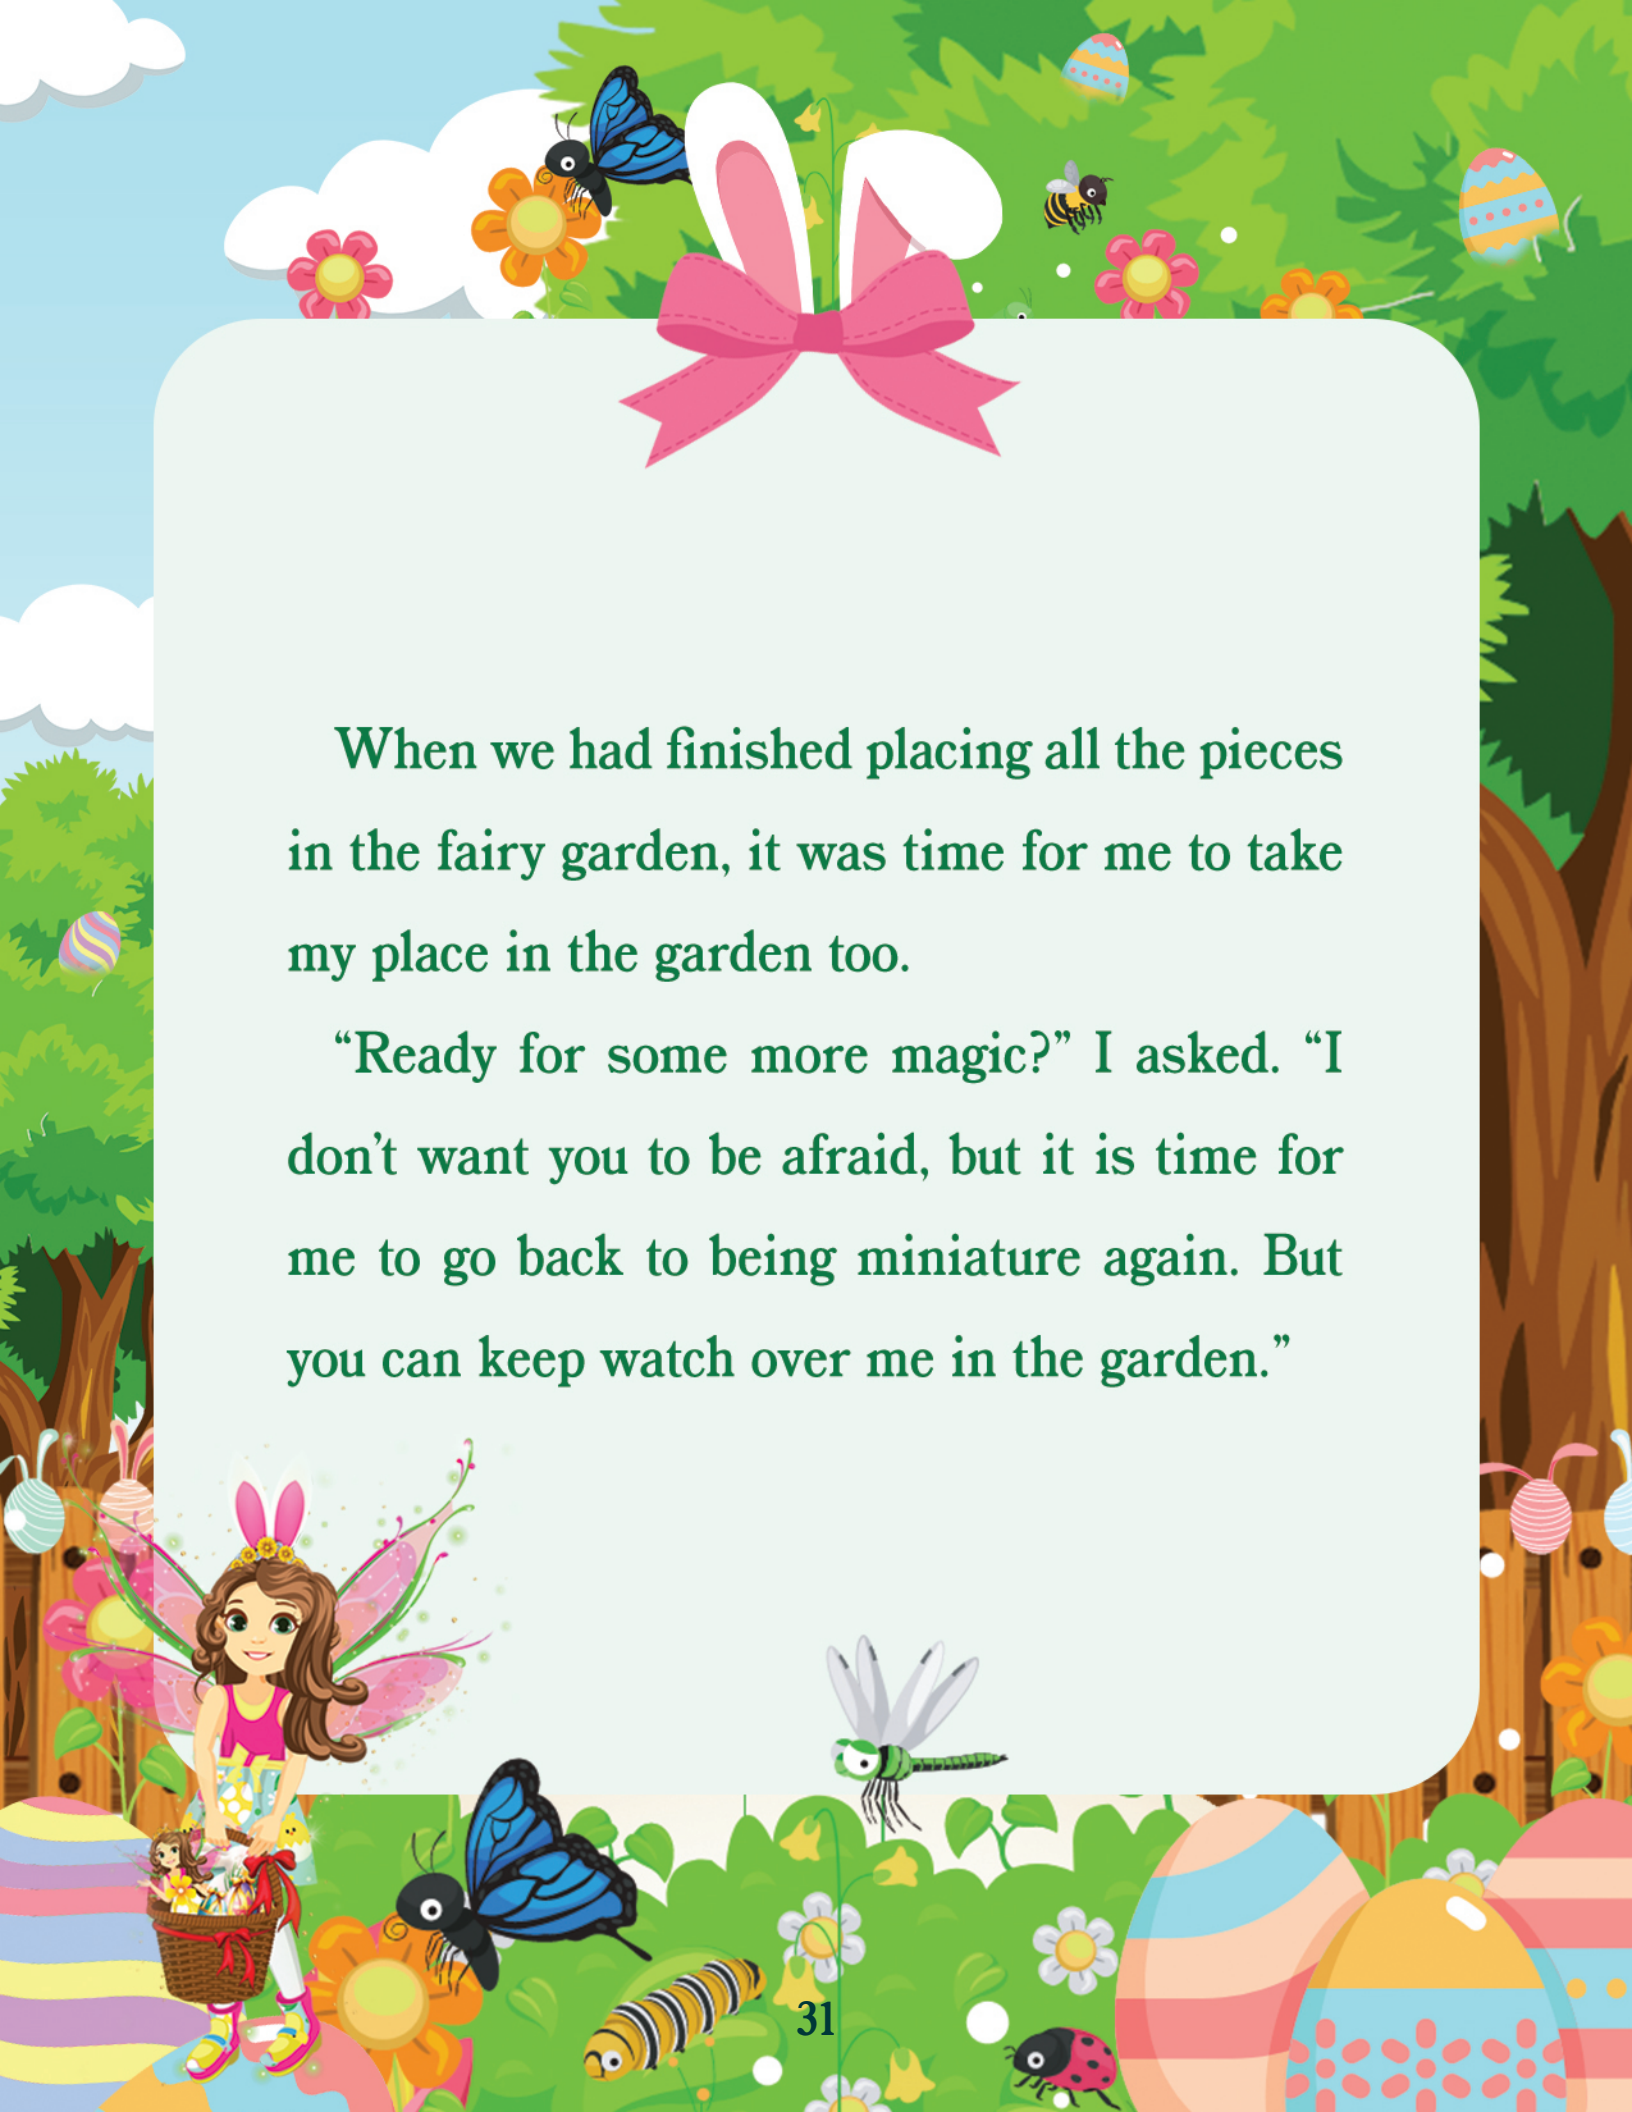

Together, we placed a miniature fairy chair in the garden. We also added a rabbit that was planting a garden. After that, we took out a package of seeds and planted a few in the fairy garden. Kiara got out her watering can and gently misted the dirt where we had planted the seeds. She and I would have a lot of fun watching the garden grow.

I loved watching the expression on Kiara's face. Now, that she understood what she was supposed to do with all the items in her Easter basket, she was able to enjoy the magical experience of assembling her fairy garden. It made me so happy to spend time with her and to teach her about the magical world where I lived.

When we had finished placing all the pieces in the fairy garden, it was time for me to take my place in the garden too.

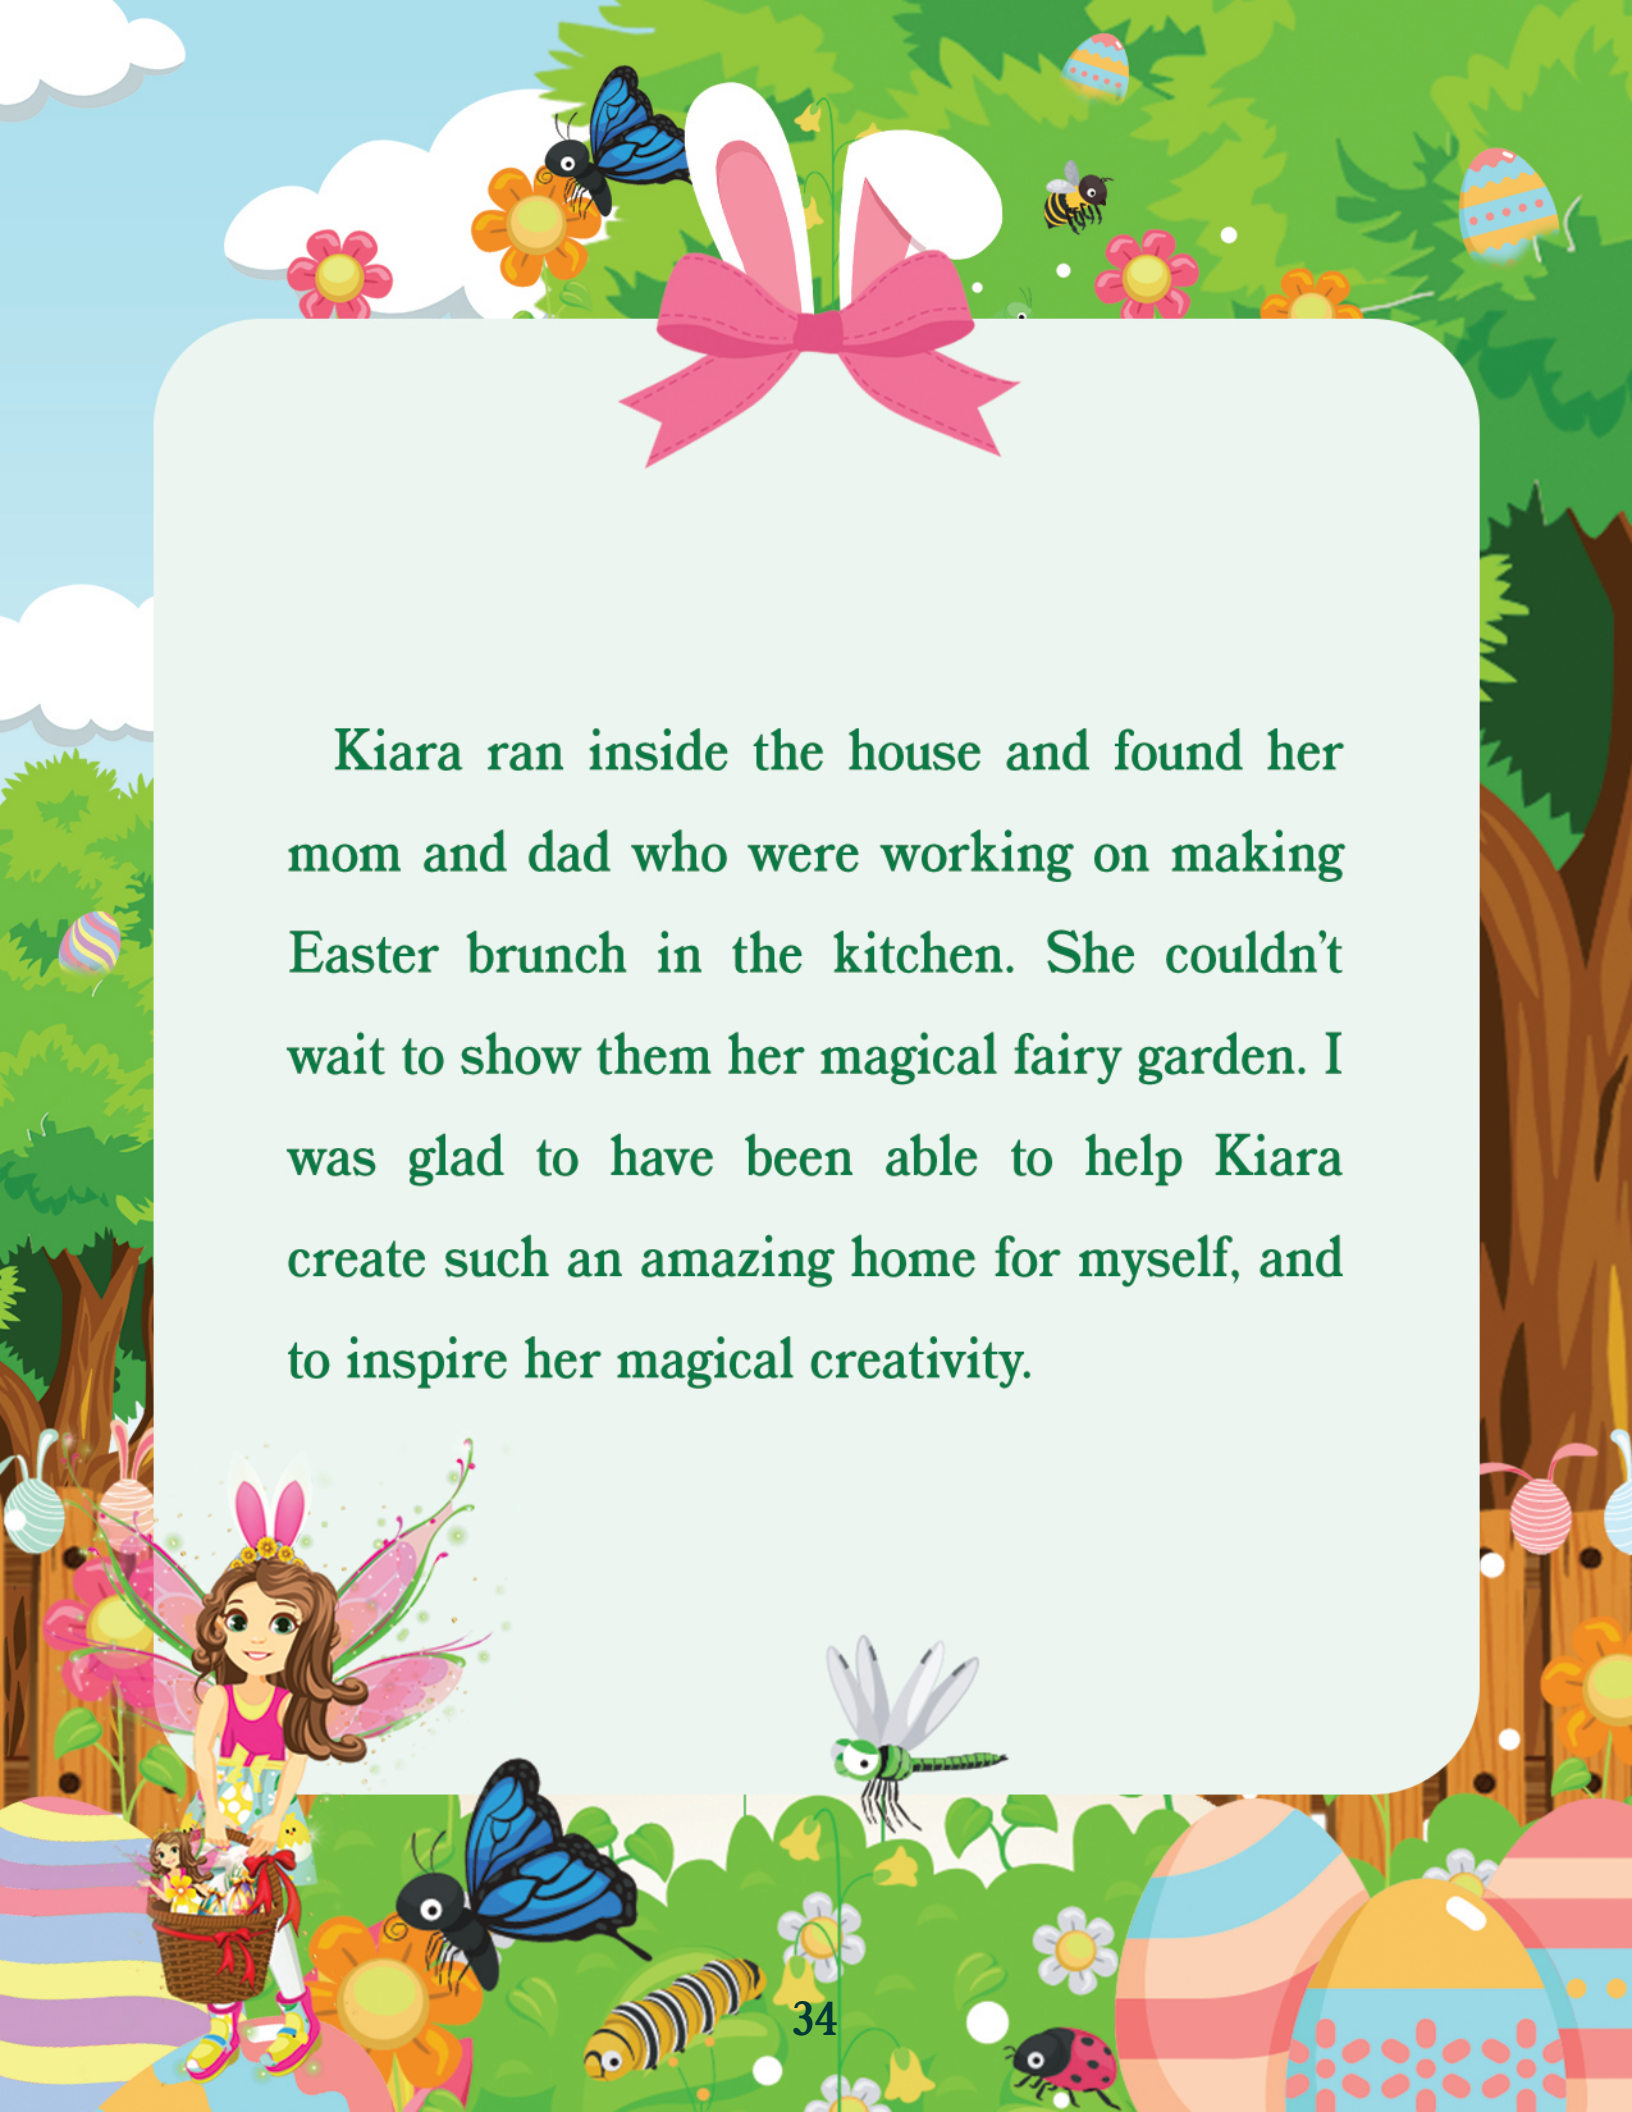

“Ready for some more magic?” I asked. “I don’t want you to be afraid, but it is time for me to go back to being miniature again. But you can keep watch over me in the garden.”

“Alright,” said Kiara.

I flapped my wings and fairy dust began to swirl around again. I went back to my original size and flew into the fairy garden. I decided to take a seat on the miniature bench that Kiara and I had placed in the fairy garden. Soon, flowers would grow, and I would get to enjoy their beauty and fragrances.

Kiara ran inside the house and found her mom and dad who were working on making Easter brunch in the kitchen. She couldn't wait to show them her magical fairy garden. I was glad to have been able to help Kiara create such an amazing home for myself, and to inspire her magical creativity.
